Rev. Charles Herber Begins Duties as Chaplain of College

The Rev. Charles J. Herber was named Chaplain of the college on Nov. 4. To him has been committed the direction of the religious functions on the campus and the fostering of religion in the daily life of the students.

Before coming to St. Joseph's as Religious Superior, last fall, Father Herber had been Spiritual Director at St. Charles Seminary, Carthage, Ohio, and Superior of St. Mary's Home, Burkettsville, Ohio.

His new duties here will include the scheduling of all religious services on the campus. He will stimulate attendance at chapel exercises, foster the practice of frequent reception of the Sacraments, and be the official Spiritual Director of the student body. In the latter capacity he will interview each student at least once a year.

In the near future Father Herber will announce office hours for private conferences with students who may wish to consult him.

de Paur Chorus Presents Songs Of Many Lands

With the college auditorium almost filled, the de Paur Infantry Chorus presented songs of all types last night in the second program of the current Speckbaugh Memorial Series.

Conducted by Leonard de Paur, the group of Negro veterans began their concert with songs by contemporary composers, including the imaginative "Come Away, Death," by Ulysses Kay. Brazilian folk songs, ballads of World War II, Negro spirituals and work songs followed. They closed with four songs of faith, among which "The Lord's Prayer" was "most moving."

The choristers were dressed in neat, flashy military style, using the "Eisenhower" type jacket and white scarves. One of their more interesting numbers was the "Duckworth Chant," a cadence count heard in training camps during the war. As the program noted, it was slightly censored.

The concert as a whole was characterized by the depth of feeling with which the de Paur chorus presented songs of amazing variety in origin and content.

Commerce Club Plans Field Trip

At the second general meeting of the Commerce Club, held on Monday evening, Nov. 7, plans were made for a forthcoming field trip to Joliet, the date for which has not yet been selected. The members will tour either the Illinois State Penitentiary or the Buick Electro-Motive Division plant in LaGrange. Tony Serewicz has been appointed chairman of a committee to make arrangements for this trip.

Lary Link was appointed chairman of the membership committee which will begin a room to room canvass of all halls to get new members for the Club. Plans for revival of the Annual Commerce Club dance were tabled until the next meeting.

After the business meeting, the club members were honored by a speech from the Rev. Cletus Dirksen on the topic, "What is Socialism?" A lively question and answer session followed Father Dirksen's talk. The club members were privileged to have as guests at this meeting, Judge Leopold, Paul Brunsahan and Phil Wood, Jr., prominent townsmen.

Movie to Aid Publicity Office; Frisk, Pavalko Lead Large Cast

A movie depicting various aspects of student life and campus scenes at St. Joseph's is being completed by the publicity department. The 16 mm. color film, to be used primarily for student recruitment, will be shown to high school groups in the middle-west, and at St. Joseph's Alumni gatherings.

Mr. Robert Snider, an Indiana University graduate student, has been doing the filming, and local students will have an opportunity to see the finished production soon. With more than 100 campus scenes and shots of many students, the movie revolves around freshman-year activities with Frank Pavalko and Fred Frisk assuming roles of incoming frosh. The film, silent for the present, will be equipped with sound later, and will last approximately 20 minutes.

Mr. George Smith, director of Student Recruitment and Graduate Placement, is in charge of the circulation of the movie.

College Writers Offered Contest; Prizes to $500

The fourth annual College Writers' Short Story Contest, announced recently by Tomorrow magazine, offers a first prize of $500; second, $300; and third, $200 for the best short stories submitted. Manuscripts will be judged by the editors of Tomorrow and the editors of Creative Age Press.

The prize-winning stories will be published in the spring and summer of 1950. All other manuscripts will be considered for publication as regular contributions and paid for at Tomorrow's regular rates.

Entries should be addressed to College Contest, Tomorrow Magazine, 11 East 44th Street, New York 17, N.Y. The deadline is January 15, 1950.

The contest is open to every college student. No application blanks are necessary. Manuscripts should not exceed 5000 words. Any number of manuscripts may be submitted by a single student. Each entry must be marked College Contest, and must bear the writer's name, his home address, and the name and address of the college he is attending. All entries must be accompanied by a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Locally, the Mary J. Pursley Award for Creative Writing is open to all St. Joseph's students each year. For the best work in the form of fiction, drama, or poetry an award of $50.00 is given annually.

Mr. Donald Attwater Explains Liturgy To Student Body

"When you get to heaven you'll have to sing, so you might as well begin now." These are the words of Mr. Donald Attwater, who delivered an address on "Catholics and their Liturgy" in the Collegeville auditorium, on Nov. 3. In short, Mr. Attwater believes in preparing now for the future. He further expressed belief that Catholics attend Mass only because they must.

Mr. Attwater's topic has been his life's work. He has written several books on Catholic liturgy. Liturgy, as defined by Mr. Attwater, is public worship for the benefit of all. He divides worship into three classes, public, group, and individual, and said that public worship is the best. Catholics, he said, are subject to liturgy from baptism until death. They should grow spiritually as well as physically.

Following his speech, Mr. Attwater conducted a question period. In answer to the question, "Will the Mass ever be said in English?" Mr. Attwater replied that he believed it would be very desirable, but he didn't think it would become a reality.

Columbian Players; Xavier Guild, Combine to Present Play

Breakfast cereal saturated with molasses and topped with olives, an old man of 86 or 88, he's not sure, two chamber-pots, and the heroic rescue of a bovine beauty from a burning barn—these are some of the amazing items which play parts in "January Thaw," to be presented here, Sunday and Monday nights. The three-act comedy is the first on the Columbian Players' schedule, for this year. Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m.

NFCCS Drawing On New Plymouth

St. Joseph's NFCCS group, in conjunction with students of six other mid-west Colleges, St. Francis, St. Mary-of-the-Woods, Aquinas, Nazareth, Marian, and Our Lady of Cincinnati, is sponsoring a drawing on a 1949 Plymouth automobile, for the benefit of the Overseas Service Fund Drive to assist in the rehabilitation of European colleges and universities and European Youth Hostels.

Tickets will be available to the student body by Thanksgiving. Locally the drive is under the supervision of Joe McGrath, NFCCS Senior Delegate, and John Metzner, president of the Fort Wayne Region.

Members of the local drama club, together with six girls from St. Xavier College, Chicago, have spent the past month and a half practicing under the direction of Mr. Ralph Cappuccilli. The actresses have spent several weekends here, and the cast is rounding into good shape.

Final rehearsals will be held Friday and Saturday. Of special interest is the fine playing of Uncle Walter, the old man of 86 or 88, by Al Kovic. Uncle Walt is the type of chipper person who makes a younger man cringe at such excessive ambition.

The basic plot of the play is the plight of an Eastern family, the Gages, when the long-missing owners of the Gages' farmhouse return and the two families become snowbound. The characters are of sufficient variety to make the ensuing situation quite humorous.

William Boos is the author of "January Thaw."

Molasses and Olives

Misses Pat Holden, Mary Ann Boreczky, and Therese Marion, from St. Xavier College, and Al Kovac and Utah Cummings, in a scene from the Columbian Players' forthcoming "January Thaw", which will be given in the college auditorium, next Sunday and Monday nights.

Local Prof Is V. P. of Ind. Society

The Rev. Joseph Scheuer, instructor in Sociology, was elected vice-president of the Indiana Philosophical Association, meeting in Indianapolis recently. In addition to Father Scheuer, St. Joseph's was represented at the conclave by Father Kaiser and Father Maziarz.

Three members of the Division of Natural Sciences, the Revs. Clarence Kroeckel, Joseph Smolar, and Charles Rueve, attended a meeting of the Indiana Academy of Science at Wabash College, Crawfordsville, on Nov. 4.

TV or not TV

Recently a plan was announced for financing a television set for the Rec Hall. The Student Council, after a cross-section of student opinion, had been checked, decided to proceed on the information that students are in favor of purchasing the TV set, and are willing to contribute $1.00 each toward the cost. Since the set is to be paid for by the students, it will be their property, and better use and care of the equipment will naturally follow.

But the situation at the moment is definitely confusing. The proposed set, one of the best available, with a 16-inch screen, will cost approximately $450.00, including antenna and installation charges. At present, only $95.00 have been contributed, and this sum was collected in Noll Hall alone. What has happened?

Two explanations are possible:

1. Members of the inter-hall council have been delegated to make the collection; they are to canvass their respective halls. Perhaps Noll Hall is the only one which has been thoroughly covered.
2. The students themselves, having shown a willingness to contribute, have now done an about-face, and have decided that the idea isn't such a good one after all.

But no matter what the explanation, a lack of cooperation is evident. The project is certainly a good one; a TV set will add much to the recreational facilities on the campus, especially on the cold winter nights which discourage trips to town. Boxing, wrestling matches, basketball games and other attractions on TV are not to be denied their popularity. We think a man is a bit illogical if he refuses to buy a box-seat at these events for the ridiculously low sum of $1.00. The sooner the set is paid for, the sooner we shall enjoy our investment.

The Cheer Leaders Lead

This past week the campus saw increased fervor in the activities of the cheer leaders in their drive for more yells for Puma games. The contest they are sponsoring is an invitation to every student to submit yells and cheers to help build up spirit in the Cardinal and Purple cheering sections.

We likewise saw an increase in the yells obtained; but then, progress from nothing to something, no matter how small, is always an increase. However, the number of cheers doesn't in any way correspond with the number of students who could submit them.

We refuse to admit that the Collegeville community is peopled by vacuum-filled, unimaginative craniums, sitting on listless, lethargic bodies. But, the alternative demands that the citizens of this community get behind the contest and submit the cheers that are asked for. Puma fans have an opportunity to prove that a loud cheering section is a help to a team. We hope to see them use that opportunity.—U.C.

Intellectual Maturity

An interesting type of activity results when one smooths out the little pile of earth marking an ant-hole. With the entrance plugged, the ants on the outside go scurrying round and round, back and forth, sometimes stopping completely, but always moving on again. They seem to lose all sense of direction; they can't find anyplace to go, and consequently wear themselves out getting nowhere.

Can it be said that some of today's College students are like these ants who have nowhere to go? Are some college men scurrying around like lost ants, accomplishing nothing? The answer is quite evident. "Yes!" In one respect, however, some students are worse than these purposeless insects. Ants do not spread dirt over their own entrances. Yet, some college students, without realizing it, often barricade the passageway to full benefit of education, then spend the rest of their lives trying to beat down a barrier they built against themselves.

What are the materials used in the construction of the barricade? The planks are labeled variously with the words Worldliness, Apathy, and Poor Cooperation. Then they are nailed together and fixed in place with a ton or so of a strange kind of cement. The principle ingredients are the coarse gravel of Intellectual Immaturity and the stagnant water of Infrequent Use of the Sacraments.

How is a student to remove the barrier? If the cement has set to hardness, then he must use the dynamite of Diligent Practice of Religion. Through frequent use of the sacraments, visits to the chapel, contemplation of the purpose of creation, and the inculcation into daily life of religious values, the immature mind will become fertile ground. The mature way of life will develop and with it the perseverance which makes for a profitable college career!

In religion lies the means by which the poor student can rise from the plight of the lost ant.—D.L.C.

Joe Puma, Dave Experiment on Cafeteria Cider

When that November with his wintry blasts the balmy summer does freeze up to a frizzle, then the inner circle that rules over a small midwestern college takes leave of its movie-making activities to see if the students of this college have been reading their text-books like good little boys.

At the same time, the students buckle down to a last mad effort to make the faculty believe that they have been doing just that. After a solid week of this concerted effort and big attempt at hypocrisy, a truce is called, both parties lapse back into disregard for the other, and everyone is happy for six more weeks. The inner circle goes back to making movies and the students go back to whatever they have been doing since September.

Energetic Joe

In Joe Puma's case, this entailed sitting on his bunk, blowing smoke rings at the ceiling, and idly considering the possibility of his prefect coming in and fining him to the extent of four beers. Realizing that his comfort wasn't worth it, he swung down and said to his roommate Dave:

"It's too dull around here, Let's go out and do some post-hitching."

"Naw, they'd catch us, for sure. Think of something else."

"We've got five hours to kill. Let's go down and drink occasional beers at the local pub. We're old enough."

"How do you know? You haven't read the handbook yet. Besides, we haven't got enough money. Let's get our gear ready for the trip to Kokomo tonight. The Pyumas are ready to run wild this time."

"Yeah, them Poomas are hot." Thus showing the policy of local determination of pronunciation, Joe and Dave fell to arming themselves for the trip. Two heavy coats, four thermos bottles, two blankets, a pair of Puma pennants and two lists of cheers later, our heroes ventured forth to show Kokomo what real cheering is like.

Off Like a Bird

Entering the bus designed to take them to the game, which boasted of horse-hair seats and the cryptic expression, "B. Oldfield" scratched into the paint, the Rensselaer Rover boys settled into their places.

Joe smiled, pulled a thermos bottle from his trappings, and said, "Looks like a long, dry pull, Dave. Here, have a snort."

Dave did so. "Hey, what is this stuff?"

"Apple juice, like they serve at breakfast. One of the good nuns gave it to me. Go on, have another swig."

After the Game

Several hours later, our heroes stumbled into the magnificent conveyance once more, for the trip back to St. Joe. With a definite list to starboard, they tacked down the aisle and slid into their seats.

"Whee! Wunnerful game, wasn't it?"

"Yeah, Shplendid. Who won?"

"I dunno. Y'know, by the third quarter, I couldn't tell Cardinal from Purple."

A sobering thought hit Dave. He struggled with it for a few minutes then said,

"Joe, are you sure that was apple juice in the jugs?"

"Shure it was. I got it myself, about a month ago. It's been sitting in a dark corner of the room with a little sugar in it all this time."

Fr. Heiman Officiates At Musicians' Meet

Lawrence Heiman, instructor in Music and Choir Director, here.

GAG BUSTERS

BY BEECH'S GHOST

I was just coming back from the Saturday night shoot-em-ups at the local metropolis' flickers, when I hear a wild scream and who is it but my buddy George. He's bearing down on me like Buck Jones on Chief Yellow Hand, but I manage to collar him and comment on the fact that the Kokomo game must have been lively.

"That it was, that it was," he quips, "yea verily, a lively time was had by all."

"As a matter of fact, all the disasters are not yet counted. Who knows what the final total will be? Desperate Dave Coady didn't even make it back to dear old St. Joe. He was last seen heading due South after the game, with a cargo of what looked to me like local Kokomo stuff."

"The game was a swell one, though. All the players got a chance to participate. It looks like Canterbury's got a new play, involving the whole squad in a wild tussle. We St. Joe gentlemen learn quickly, though. Roy Stone was even able to show their manager a few new wrinkles on the game. And on the manager's chin, too."

"The Kokomo High School band played music at half time. Their baton twirlers were doing fine, too, until two unidentified volunteers borrowed a pair of the majorette's hats and joined the band."

"The effects of the game lasted until the next morning, too. Utah Cummings woke up with a new bunk buddy. It seems that some fellow got lost in the maze of Noll Hall corridors, and decided that Utah's was as good a room as any, since it held an empty sack. The next morning he woke up and ordered Utah out, claiming it was his room."

"And the pep rally that came the night before was okay too. Every man there was sure that Mumbles Weibel missed his vocation when he didn't go into the movies. He'd have made a swell leading lady for Mighty Joe Young.

"Smokey Malone starred in his part of the skit until it came time for his one cue. He musta been too interested in Charlene Barton, because he forgot it."

Joe McGrath and Lover Welsh were having a wild time, too. Welsh's only trouble was that he couldn't get Miss McGrath's beard out of his face to shoot a cue."

At this moment, George has to stop to take a breath, so I interpolated, "Yeah, that was quite a windup for the season, all right, especially right after exams. Say, George, how did you make out in your tests?"

His face doesn't fall; it cascades downwards. "I woulda been all right," he moans, "but I happen to get a class from this Mr. Sanderlin, who is lately arrived to give the students the literary heebies."

"Well, I take the test all right, and after I hear the grades I ask the joe if he'd ever given an 'A'. He opens up with a Pepsodent grin and comments affirmative. It seems that in the two and a half years he's been teaching, he really goes all out and spreads Ables among three people. One of them later collapses."

Well, Georgie, I manage to squeeze in, "your tale of horror really moves me, but I have no time to tarry. I am now off to the rec hall to try to work up a drinking acquaintance with this glinch who is lately installed behind the counter for the purpose of making cokes. Personally, George, I think she is much better at being decorative."

IN COLLEGE WITH "REB"

Well, we're stumped. Let's give it in a quiz

Puma Cagers Await Chicago Invasion

Canterbury Crushed By Puma Power, 21-0

BY MIKE NASSR

Canterbury College bowed to the Pumas, 21-0, Nov. 11, at Kokomo, as thirteen senior gridders played their last game for the Cardinal and Purple. The win ended St. Joseph's season with a record of five wins and four losses.

The Pumas sparked brilliantly in the first half, but their lustre became somewhat tarnished in the last two periods. Frequent fumbling and pass interceptions, together with a free-for-all between the teams near the end of the game, marred the final half. The Knights outplayed St. Joe in the final two periods, but the Puma defense rose to the occasion several times to hold the boys from Danville scoreless.

Moore Scores

The game's first score came when less than two minutes had elapsed in the first quarter. Don Quinn took the Canterbury kickoff and ran it to the Knights' 48-yard line. After three running plays had moved the ball to the 18, Wally Moore slashed through right guard to score unmolested. Tom Quinn made the first of his three successful conversions, and the Pumas had an early 7-0 lead.

Later in the first quarter the stage was set once more for TD Moore, after St. Joe had taken a Canterbury punt and moved to their own 43-yard marker. This time Wally swept around left end, reversed his field, and with fine blocking went 57 yards to paydirt.

That Combo Again

On the first play of the second quarter, Jerry Fleck set up St. Joe's third marker, by intercepting a pass on the Knights' 32-yard line. Four plays later the Pumas' ace passing combination, Tom Quinn to Don Quinn, resulted in 21 yards and a 21-0 lead for the Collegeville men.

The final half of the game lacked the spectacular play of the first two quarters. Canterbury's Bill Volk got off a 40-yard run in the third quarter, which moved the ball to the Puma 17-yard line. The St. Joe defense stifled four Knight drives which penetrated within the 15-yard line.

The game was played mostly by seniors. The names of these players, many of whom have never received due recognition for their many hours of "working" for St. Joe, are: Jim Causland, quarterback; Don Dippel guard; Bud Greif, center; Charles Hanley, halfback; Al Miesch, guard; Ron Miniat, end; Wally Moore, halfback; Al Murphy, center; "Lynx" Quinn, end; Tom Quinn, quarterback; Don Ronan, tackle; Roy Stone, tackle; and Tom Tysall, guard.

Pumas Mutilate Indiana State

St. Joseph's Pumas broke an away-from-home losing streak of more than two years on Nov. 5, when they smothered Indiana State, 33-6, at Terre Haute.

Leading throughout, the Pumas chalked up their first touchdown when the game was only two minutes old, but further attempts to score in the first half were thwarted. The Scharfmen exploded, however, for 26 points in the second half.

Sycamores Outclassed

The Sycamores were completely outclassed in their homecoming game. They were able to penetrate the St. Joe 25-yard line only once, when Cabell broke away in the third quarter for 49 yards and the only State score of the game.

The Pumas received the opening kick-off on the 10-yard line. Schultheis returned the ball to the 50, and Tom Quinn's pass to Schultheis brought it to the 35. Two plunges by Beaver and one by Hanley put the ball on State's seven. Four plays later John Frawley bulled across for the first touchdown. Frawley's kick was good, giving St. Joseph's an early 7-0 lead.

For the remainder of the first half, neither team threatened until the dying minutes, when the Pumas drove to the State eight. A 15-yard penalty held them in check, however, until time ran out.

Pumas Score Again

State kicked to the Cardinal and Purple to begin the second half, and once more the Pumas took the ball on their 10, marching downfield for a TD in 12 plays. Beaver went around right end from the eight for the score. Frawley missed his first try at conversion, but a Sycamore off-side penalty gave him a second chance, and he made it 14-0.

Taking a Sycamore punt on the St. Joe 22 a few plays later, the Pumas charged 78 yards in eight plays. A Tom Quinn-Wally Moore pass play totaled 64 yards, bringing the ball to the State 10. In two tries at the line Moore made it 20-0. Frawley's kick was wide.

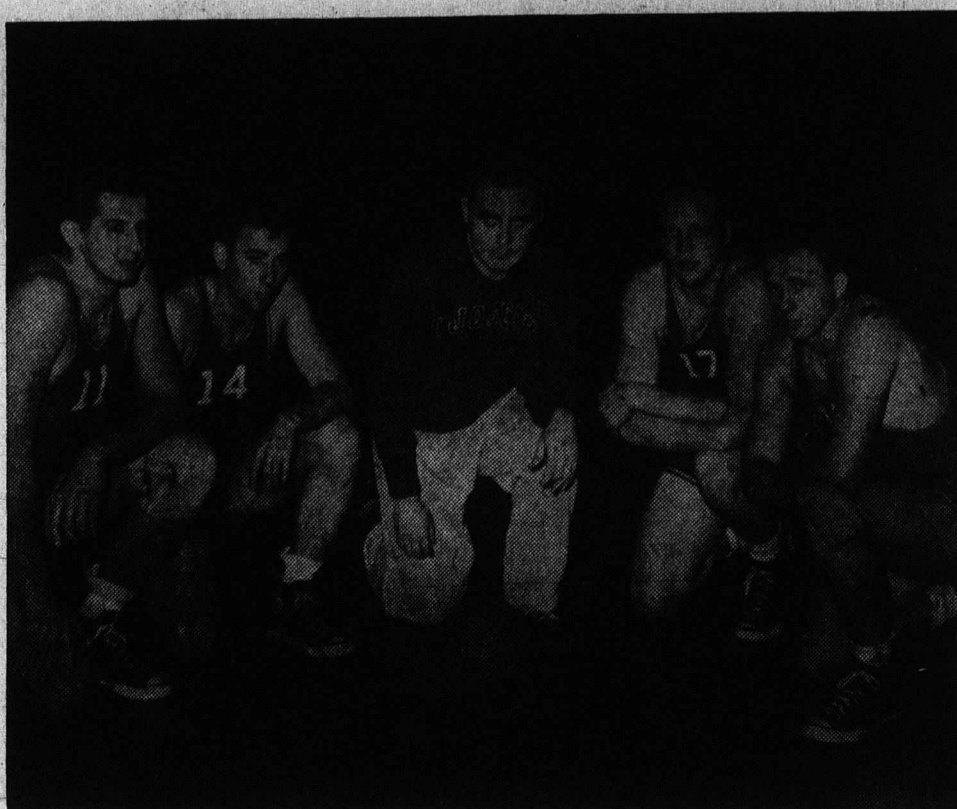

Bowles kicked to the 20-yard line, and State moved the ball to the 49 in two plays. Then the Sycamores' Cabell ripped around end for 49 yards and State's only score. The kick was wide, and the third quarter ended, St. Joe-20, State-6.

Fleck Tallies

Early in the final period the Pumas took over on their own 45. A pass from Schubert to Tom Quinn put the ball on State's 10. Three plays later Jerry Fleck scored from the one-yard line. Tom Quinn's kick was good.

The final score of the game came when the Pumas took the ball on their own 45. In eight plays they hit paydirt, as Don Schubert dodged over his right end from the eight. Tom Quinn's kick was wide, and the game ended with (Continued on Page Four)

They'll Give Their Last . . .

The foursome will see action when St. Joe opens its 1949-'50 basketball season against Chicago University.

Cheer Leaders Push Contest; Prizes Awarded for Cheers

Campaign posters announcing a contest to foster new cheers for the St. Joe athletic teams have sprouted up around the campus during the past week. The contest is sponsored by the "Noisy Four", Don Netols, John Hauer, Tom English, and Gene O'Hare, Puma cheerleaders. Prizes to be awarded to those who submit the best original cheers are: first prize, a St. Joe belt; second, a St. Joe "T" shirt; third, a large St. Joe pennant; and fourth, a St. Joe lapel pin.

The rules are as follows:

1. Submit any original cheer that can be used by St. Joseph's College.
 2. Enclose it in an envelope addressed to "Cheers Contest," and mail it at the postoffice.
- This is the students' chance to increase pep at St. Joe by submitting cheers. Entrants may submit as many original cheers as they wish.

.. INTRAMURAL SPORTS ..

The Administration Building and Drexel Hall teams, pre-tourney favorites, failed to reach even the finals last week in the inter-hall touch football tourney.

The Xavier Hall seminarians and the West Seifert teams advanced to the finals and were to meet early this week for the championship play-off.

West Seifert Surprise
West Seifert turned out to be the surprise team of the tourney. Classified as underdogs by the "experts," West toppled both the Administration Building and Drexel. They edged past the Ad Building, 6-0, in the first game of the tourney, and followed this with a 19-13 win over Drexel two days later. Drexel had previously beaten East Seifert, 18-6.

Xavier Hall met but one team on its road to the finals, Noll Hall, which fell 14-0.

Open 22-Game Cage Schedule On Home Court

BY BUD CLARK

Art Cosgrove and his experienced St. Joseph's basketball squad is planning on its best season of the last four years when the unveiling takes place against the University of Chicago, Nov. 28, in the field house.

As you may remember, the Pumas started like a house afire last year by racking up their first four opponents in succession, but then the tide changed. The Puma hardwooders went on to win but five of their remaining 18 contests.

Seasoned Vets

But Coach Cosgrove, the amiable red-head who won basketball fame while playing for Butler of Indianapolis, has different plans for this campaign. The Puma front five will be seasoned with veterans.

Dependable Ray Patterson led the squad in scoring last year by dropping in 261 points for an 11.9 average. Ray captained last year's five and is being counted on by Cosgrove to engineer the Pumas drive toward the Midlands Conference championship this year.

Krodel, Dwyer Back

Backing Patterson will be 6-foot 5-inch Bill Krodel. Krodel carried an 8.8 average last year and will be counted on heavily to control rebounds. For a deceptive pivot man Cosgrove has Bob Dwyer, a sleight-of-hand artist and a scoring threat at all times. Dwyer was second in Puma scoring last year with a 9.3 average.

George Peters came into his own toward the latter part of the season, scoring 170 points for an eight-point average. Peters proved to be a dead-eye on one-handed push shots, and a menace on under-the-basket-drive shots.

He Hawks 'Em

Chuck Barton will be back for his fourth crack on a Cosgrove-coached team. Chuck proved a hawk on the boards last year and also dropped 136 points to prove he was no slouch on the offensive end.

Jack Wilz, Don Tesmond, and Mike Kacmar will probably see their share of action. All three boys made good showings last year. The Pumas face one of their toughest schedules in years. They meet tough opposition in Chicago University, Rider College of New Jersey, New York A. C., Duquesne, Indiana State, and DePaul of Chicago.

Besides this the St. Joe basketballers must face tough Midlands Conference opposition in Loras, St. Ambrose, and St. Norbert's. It will be a terrific season, if the Pumas can put the skids to these basketball powers.

St. Joe Enters Team In Shuffleboard Play

The formation of a shuffleboard league in White County has led to the entry of a team from the St. Joe campus. As of Nov. 1, the team, sponsored by Jona's College-side Inn, was in second place in the league. Managed by Louis Abbott, members of the team are Charles Gerst, George Byerwalter, Bob Ryan, Tom Colquitt, Bill Ciminelli and Gabe Fiorella.

Home board for the Puma team is located at the Sun Tan Inn in Wolcott. Other boards are located in Monticello, Monon, and Reynolds. Games are played every Tuesday evening, with three two-man teams shooting three games each.

A trophy will be given to the winning team, plus a trip to Indianapolis for the Indiana State Tournament. Prize money will be divided according to the final standings of the league.

Manager Teaney Is Unsung Hero Of Field House

It took Charles Teaney four years to get from age 19 to 23. Moreover, the fall of each of these years was spiced with old sweat sox and football jerseys, bottles of wintergreen, cleatless football shoes and cries of, "Hey Teaney! My pants don't fit!"

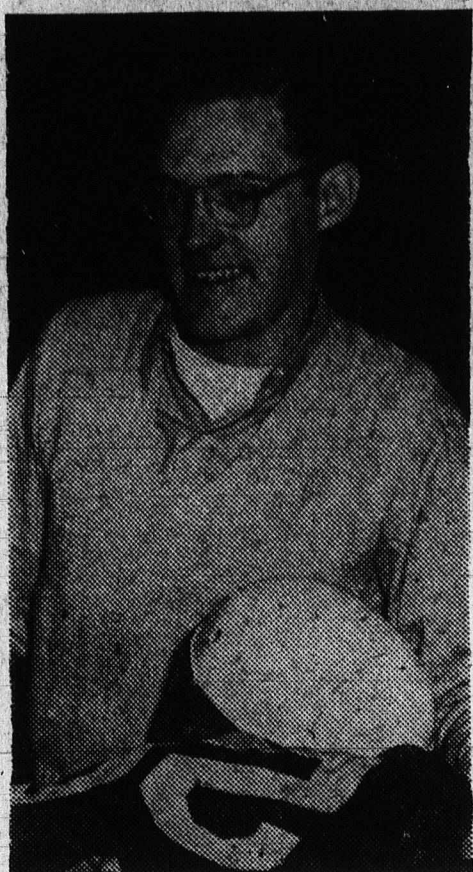

Charles Teaney, student manager of the football team, always put in an appearance at the field house before the team did, and he was usually there long after the team had left. He went with the team wherever they travelled. He sat tirelessly on the sidelines, giving friendly advice to Pumas and yelling imprecations at opponents. He galloped fearlessly onto the field with the water bucket every time there was a time-out period.

Fragrant Flower Charles

And yet, after the Pumas played a game, it was the football team who climbed from the bus covered with blood and glory. Charles Teaney climbed down covered with used and fragrant uniforms. When the football team celebrated a victory, Teaney sorted helmets and shoes. The sports page of the paper showed pictures and sticks of type about the exploits of the players. Teaney was mentioned only when some equipment was lost.

Charles Teaney, you got a raw deal! Stuff hereby apologizes for any part it has had in the affair. Further, Stuff commends you for the wonderful work you have done in the field house, and wishes you success and happiness, now that the season is over.

Fragrant Charles

Charles Teaney, St. Joe senior, who has been student manager of the Puma athletic teams for four years. He has been the man behind the teams uniforms.

NFCCS Announces Overseas Program And 1949 Results

The fund raising drive of the NFCCS's Overseas Service Program was officially launched on October 9 in 209 Catholic Colleges throughout the country. The money realized by the drive will be used for needy students in the war devastated areas of Europe and Asia. On the St. Joe campus, the drive will consist of a drawing for a new automobile.

During the past two years, according to Mr. Patrick Cotter, national chairman of the drive, United States Catholic College students have sent more than $500,000 in money, clothing and books to impoverished students in 16 countries of the world.

Archbishop Richard J. Cushing, of Boston, Honorary Chairman of the program, called the action "a most necessary work." He urges that the drive receive the active support of all students.

'St. Joe in 1975' Is Presented In Pre-Canterbury Pep Rally

Collegeville witnessed its biggest and "peppiest" pep rally of the grid season the night before the Puma-Canterbury tilt, played at Kokomo for the benefit of the St. Joseph's Hospital Nurses Fund.

The College Band, directed by Mr. Connor, opened the rally with a snappy march which put the assembly in the proper mood. When the theatre lights had been dimmed, an original skit, "A Peek into the future of St. Joe," directed by Frank Pavalko and featuring some of the best talent on the campus, projected the audience into the year 1975. The Student Council of St. Joe, a co-educational institution, was holding a meeting to determine what could be done to inspire student spirit for the game with Canterbury which had just broken Notre Dame's impressive streak of 364 games without a defeat. For twenty hilarious minutes the 1975 Student Council held forth and came up with the slogan, "Cut Canterbury Tales."

Coach Talks

When the curtain closed on the skit, Pavalko introduced Coach Dick Scharf who in turn presented the senior class members of the 1949 football squad, all of whom have had four years' experience with the varsity eleven. The 13 seniors are Bud Greif, Al Murphy, Tom Tysall, Capt. Al Miesch, Don Dippel, Ron Miniat, Don Ronan, Roy Stone, Don Quinn, Tom Quinn, Jim Causland, Wally Moore, and Chuck Hanley.

Applause greeted each player as he stepped on the stage, and when all had been assembled the band played the "Fight Song," after which the seniors, led by the promising cheer leaders, Al Miesch and Don Ronan, gave a yell for the school—a variation of the St. Joe locomotive cheer. After Capt. Miesch had thanked the crowd for their support at the home games and the send-off rallies for the team, the four college cheer leaders stepped forward on the stage and led some rousing cheers for the success of the Cardinal and Purple at Kokomo.

The rally came to a close with music by the band.

St. Mary's College Entertains Pumas

St. Mary-of-the-Woods College, Terre Haute, played host to the Puma football squad and fans on Nov. 5, after the St. Joe-Indiana State game.

After defeating the Sycamores, 33-6, in the afternoon, the St. Joe team and about 20 Puma fans spent the evening as guests of the girls of St. Mary's. An informal dance in the Woods' recreation room afforded a delightful evening for the Collegeville men, who were unanimous in voicing their opinion that the girls showed themselves excellent hostesses.
